WELCOME BACK

---

Dear Divinity School Students,

Welcome back to another academic year at the Divinity School! As representatives of the Divinity Students Association (DSA), we wanted to be among the first to welcome you to the Divinity School community. While this academic year will bring its fair share of uncertainty, the Divinity Students Association is here to support you as we make the collective journey through these challenging times. While we certainly wish we could welcome you back in person, we look forward to being with you online and in-person when appropriate. We are hopeful that our social events and student resources will quickly make the Divinity School feel like home—a place where you can find strength and support as we all make sense of our ever-changing world. We hope that together we can build a community in which everyone is able to bring the entirety of their selves—identities, goals, vulnerabilities, successes, and challenges. It is so important, now more than ever, that we view our selves and one another in the light of collective care and well-being. Looking forward to a wonderful new year with you all,

The Divinity Students Association Board
